Terms of AwardSigned acceptance letter must be provided to Memorial University's Harris Centre within the stipulated time frames. The funding is limited to a maximum of two years in duration as defined in the project agreement; The project must begin within two months of the date of award. Grantees MUST request any change in timelines from Memorial University's Harris Centre for review and approval; project extensions can only be entertained in extenuating circumstances; Memorial University's Harris Centre may wish to receive input on the final draft of the report from one academic peer and one community practitioner. The comments will not focus on methodology or quality of the written piece, but suggest ways the information can be mobilized and presented to appropriate stakeholders; Deviations from the approved budget categories must be pre-approved by Memorial University's Harris Centre; The funding allocation will be dispersed in two installments, with details to be finalized through the acceptance process. Final reports should be written in clear language and accessible to non-specialist policy and practitioner audiences. If awarded the Indigenous & Northern Collaborative Research and Education funding, the proponent agrees to: Provide an interim progress report at the half-way mark of the project. Provide a final report and knowledge mobilization plan no later than the project end date. Provide copies of any written materials (including journal articles, theses, etc.) resulting from the grant.

I understand and agree to the Terms & Conditions Above
